Ninkasi Apple Saison, The Wild Beer Co', Somerset, England 2016 £24

Not a wine, but a wonderful alternative by one of Britain's most progressive brewers. Ninkasi is a Belgian-style Saison named after the Sumerian goddess of beer. It is fermented with Somerset apple juice, tropical New Zealand hops and wild yeast before undergoing its secondary fermentation in the bottle with champagne yeast. Not only does Ninkasi make a unique aperitif, but it's also ideal with cheese.

Jacquesson Cuvée n° 739 Grand Vin, Dizy, France N.V £100

The Jacquesson brothers, Jean-Herve and Laurent, embark on a yearly quest to reveal the full expression of their terroir in order to make the best possible wines. Cuvée n° 739 - based on the 2011 vintage, but with 31% reserve wine - is a fine, harmonious and balanced wine from an artisan Champagne house that has broken with local traditions to take a more Burgundian approach to wine-making.

Cellar Selection, Albourne Estate, West Sussex, England 2015 £33

Based on the edge of the South Downs just outside Brighton, Albourne Estate produce a range of exciting single estate boutique wines. The Ortega grapes ripen early and after whole bunch pressing they are fermented in French oak barrels. The wine is then left on the lees for several weeks in order to develop a richer, fuller body. The Ortega is then blended with 15% Chardonnay, resulting in a complex, rounded and expressive wine.

Muscadet Sèvre & Maine Sur Lie, Les Grands Presbytères, Loire, France 2013 £33

Domaine les Grands Presbytères is based in St. Fiâtre, South East of Nantes, at the mouth of the beautiful River Loire and was established by Nelly Marzelleau's grandfather in the 1950s. St. Fiâtre is considered one of the best sites for Muscadet Sèvre et Maine due to its soil composition; mainly granitic gneiss and loose flints that impart their footprint onto this carefully crafted dry wine.

"Noemi" Branco, Quinta do Espinho, Douro DOC, Portugal 2015 £42

Named in tribute for the grandmother of the vintner, Joachim, this is a dry white wine blended from three local white grape varieties: Viosinho, Rabigato and Côdega de Larinho. The result is a crisp, fresh white wine with citrus and white stone fruit character, some floral notes and a long, clean finish with fresh acidity. The wine is reminiscent of a Chablis with a touch more ripe fruit - a result of the presence of Viosinho, one of the Douro Valley's most promising white grape varieties.

Saint-Amour, Domaine de L'Ancien Relais, Beaujolais, France 2013 £39

Marie-Hélène and Jean-Yves Midey are 5th generation vine growers who farm 8ha of vines and harvest their grapes by hand. This Vielle-Vigne Saint-Amour is made using vines of around 70 years of age, this helps impart good complexity and length to the wine that they produce. This fresh tasting wine has a brilliant light ruby color, a bouquet of pepper and spice, with a background of dried flowers. On the palette it blends soft, fresh red fruit with earthy minerality and supple tannins.

Pinot Noir, Robert Mondavi, Napa Valley, USA 1996 £90

This Napa Pinot Noir was produced by the legendary winemaker Robert Mondavi for the 30th anniversary of his namesake winery in California. Mondavi was instrumental in modernising and shaping the winemaking landscape in America and beyond. The wine was bottled unfiltered and provides an amazing depth of flavour over 20 years later with its display of spicy fruit, heather and earthy notes with a long, complex finish.
